

THE ALCHEMIST

Ellerton from Second Nature's new Alchemy range combines modern clean lines and a handleless design for a simple look. Available in a palette of 27 colours, it works well in open-plan layouts with multifunctional living spaces. The Ellerton door is a key feature while the simple flush-rail system is available in matching painted colours or a contrasting rich oak for added warmth and character. The palette, ranging from light neutrals to strong tones, allows the kitchen to be personalised to individual tastes. Alchemy kitchens are priced from £10,000.

Mosaic magic

The Portland collection of brick and linear mosaic tiles from Mosaic Village features crushed foil and brushed steel effects combined with a sleek smooth glass finish. Five colours are available: pink, grey, green, blue and brown. The tiles measure either 35cm x 30cm or 40cm x 35cm, and are designed to be positioned in a staggered pattern. Price on application. ## FEATURE POINT

Made from high-performance concrete, these artisanal hand-crafted water features from Solus are built not only for beauty but for durability too. Able to withstand extreme climates, they are available in three sizes: 26in, 36in and 48in. The water bowls come either with scupper, for the 26in version only, or domed; elements which are available in either brass or brushed stainless steel. In the UK, the bowls are stocked in cinder and halva, with eight other concrete colours on offer in Europe. Regulations require the pump to be fitted on site. Price on application. ## MARBLE ART

These porcelain marble-effect tiles from Beswick stone have the luxurious appearance of marble without the price tag. The stylish Jumble Avorio tiles are ideal for the bathroom and are easy to lay and maintain. Unlike real marble, they are non-porous and stain-resistant, so don't require sealing or protecting, and are hygienic and easy to clean. Available in a large format tile measuring 90cm x 45cm, they cost £40.80 per sqm. (beswickstone.co.uk)
